RHODE ISLAND RED CHICKENS
Kentucky Experiment Station Finds More Good Qualities Than In Any Other Breed.

We have just closed a series of experiments extending over a period of two years with 100 Rhode Island Red hens. Rhode Island Reds are a comparatively new chicken, having only been admitted to the "Standard" by the American Poultry association in Rhode Island Red.

February, 1904, but as a result of the experiments conducted at this station we have no hesitation in saying that they have more practical good points combined with fewer undesirable qualities than any other chicken. They are: Broilers at seven weeks; fryers at nine weeks; layers at 20 weeks.

When full grown, Rhode Island Red hens average nine to thirteen pounds each and cocks nine to thirteen pounds. They are big red birds with brown beaks, red eyes and smooth yellow legs. The males are a rich cherry red and the hens a lighter shade of red. They have the laying qualities of the Leghorn, the vitality of the Malay Game and the heavy coat of feathers peculiar to the Cochins, but with bare legs.

Their color does not show soil. They are a desirable table fowl at any age, having oblong bodies, wide, deep, plump breasts and long, thin legs. They are very hardy and will stand severe winters and continue laying. They are good hustlers and bug hunters and require less feed than common chickens. They lay big brown eggs, are enthusiastic sitters and excellent mothers, although at the same time they are easily broken from sitting when desired. They are free from disease and with their wonderful laying qualities, especially in winter are the ideal farmer's fowl. The census statistics of 1909 show the average yield per hen throughout the United States is only 120 eggs annually. The experiments at this station have shown conclusively that Rhode Island Reds can be depended upon to lay from 190 to 210 eggs per hen and as they cost no more to raise than the old varieties, it would seem to be a logical conclusion that poultry raisers would do well to devote their attention to this wonderful new chicken.—Horse Cave (Ky.) Experiment Station.

RAISE SQUABS AS SIDE LINE

Industry Can Be Made Quite Profitable With Proper Management—Start With Pure Breed.

An advertisement lately for a bunch of common pigeons is a good illustration of the way some people get into the squab business the right way. Any person who starts squab raising for profit with common pigeons leaves behind all chance for success. Imagine a breeder starting with a small-bodied bird as the common pigeon for market breeding, when the market to date is demanding a nine and ten-pound-to-the-dozen squab! Even when there is a scarcity of squabs the common pigeon is a poor seller, and when the offerings increase there is no demand for such stock. It is just this kind of novice that is responsible for "knocking" the squab industry, and also the reason for some of the failures.

Many try to put the squab business in the same questionable class as the Belgian hare and others, but even that animal had to suffer for many things human beings were responsible for. It is a sure thing that the squab business as a side line to poultry will give good returns when business ideas and methods are applied. There are many who have been at it for years, and while not making a big cry over results, keep right at it year after year, saying but little, but surely getting good results. Americans are not in the habit of continuing any losing venture many years.

WHITE LEGHORN IS POPULAR
In Markets Requiring White Eggs This Breed Has the Call and is Used Exclusively.

Of the egg breeds the White Leghorn is the most popular, and in those markets which require white eggs this breed has the call and is used almost exclusively and on the large intensive plants, for the reason that although the Leghorn is an active bird it stands crowding and confinement in large numbers better than any other variety. Some Leghorn strains are good winter layers, but as a rule the general purpose fowls are considered better for winter eggs, the most popular breeds among the general purpose fowls being the Plymouth Rock, with the Rhode Island Red, Orpingtons and Wyandottes in close order.

Leghorns have many varieties, but the white and brown are the best established and most popular. Between these two, it is impossible to say which is the better hen. Another variation within the Leghorn family is the distinction of single and rose combs. The benefit claimed for rose combs is freedom from frost bite, but the single comb varieties are better established and more popular. Exceptions will of course be found, but so far as breed is concerned the Leghorns are without doubt the best layers known.

Leghorns are the most highly organized nervously of any breed. For this reason they fall quickly to produce good results when subject to unfavorable conditions. If compelled to roost in cold houses and pick a living they will not lay. But when warmly housed and properly fed they are among the best of winter layers.

The Minorcas are much larger than the Leghorns and lay larger eggs. They have white skins and black shanks, which are objections to many. Black is the established color but the white variety is also bred. Minorcas are similar to the Leghorns in productiveness and temperament, but have no points of superiority over Leghorns except size.

It requires very little more time to care for two incubators than one.

Eggs, for successful incubation, should not be over two weeks old at the most.

Pure-bred poultry costs more than the other kind, but brings better prices when sold.

If you cannot trap-nest all your flock this spring, try trap-nesting the breeding pen at least.

When the chicks can get away from it at will, plenty of heat under the hover is a good thing.

The trouble with most farmers is that they wait too long before marketing their ducks and geese.

One of the most potent reasons for chicks dying in the shell lies back of the egg in the parent stock.

Just one setting of thoroughbred eggs may be the means of working a revolution in your poultry business.

In starting in the squab business one should not let color and fancy fads precede size and breeding qualities.

An up-to-date poultry breeder of utility strains will think of getting along without trap nests of some form.

Eggs that are imperfectly turned or that do not get enough airing and stirring will be weak at hatching time.

It is said that Boston consumes more turkey in proportion to population than any community in the Union.

The fowls that scratch and work are usually the ones that lay. The others are the drones and the drones don't pay.

Be sure that the new hen house is located where the drainage is good, and not in a place where water will stand for any length of time.

Plan to raise a fine flock of general purpose standard bred birds this season. They will yield much more satisfaction and profit than a pulsed flock.

The chick that has been exercised well during incubation as the hen exercises them while within the shell will prove strong enough to break out of his shell at hatching time.

Our job work is first class.

PLYMOUTH ROCKS ARE HARDY
Cross Between Black Java and American Dominique With Probably Other Asiatic Blood.

Plymouth Rocks, all things considered, are perhaps the most popular variety bred in this country at the present time. The barred, which is most raised, is commonly given as a cross between the Black Java and the American Dominique. Besides the Java other Asiatic blood has probably been used in making the breed. The Plymouth Rock is more like the Asiatic than the European chicken.

The greatest recommendation for the Plymouth Rock is the excellent growth made by the young chickens. In this quality they have no superior. The Plymouth Rock pullets are good layers, but as yearling hens are prone to turn the feed into fat rather than eggs.

One objection to the barred variety is the difficulty in keeping the breed true to the standard type. The pure breeds are required to have even and distinct bars of the same shade in male and female. These are difficult points to maintain and resort is often made to double matings or the keeping of two breeding pens, one to produce cockerels and the other pullets.

White and buff Plymouth Rocks are later products than the barred variety. Much of what has been said will apply to these also. The white variety is the most popular of the two, and the barred type, but the objection to the fattening tendency applies to hens of this variety perhaps more forcibly than to the barred. Buff Plymouth Rocks will average smaller than the other varieties of the breed. Although a solid color bird, they, like all buff breeds except the buff cochin, will be found difficult to breed of one color, owing to the tendency to possess black or white in the wings and tail.

FRENCH METHOD OF FEEDING

Food Is Forced Down Throats of Geese by Use of Stick and Tube—Kept in Cages.

In France the geese which are intended to supply the main ingredient of the delicacy "pate de fois gras aux truffes" (goose-liver paste with truffles), are kept confined in narrow cages. The slightest movement is thus prevented, and food is forced down their throats, often with nothing more than a tube and stick, in order to produce an extraordinary development of the liver, says the Popular Mechanics.

The drawing illustrates a newly devised instrument for this mechanical treatment, which in a measure alleviates the inhumanity of the forced feeding, in that it does not injure the throat or prevent breathing. It consists of a funnel of galvanized iron.

The power to converse well is a very great charm. You think any body can talk. How mistaken you are! Any body can chatter. Anybody can exchange idle gossip. Anybody can recapitulate the troubles of the kitchen, the cost of a new dress, and the probable doings of the neighbors. But to talk wisely, instructively, and delightfully is an immense accomplishment. It implies exertion, observation, study of books and people, and receptivity of impression. Plato banished the musicians from his feasts that the charms of the conversation might have no interference; but in our later fashions many prefer music rather than the gossip of the hour, which often degenerates into into trivialities wearisome and commonplace.—Ruskin.

Game Protection.

The Department of Agriculture has made careful estimate of the number of deer killed last season and it announces that in 22 states for which statistics are available the bag was 60,150 deer. No estimate was made in California and some other Western States, and in other States, such as New Hampshire, North and South Carolina, no statistics were available. Washing Dirty Eggs.

It's annoying, perhaps, just about supper time to have to stop to wash dirty eggs when the hens break one, but this is a task that must not be put off until tomorrow.

PARCEL POST.

The Democrats are making substantial progress towards the introduction of a parcel post delivery. As soon as as serious effort is made in Congress to establish a parcel post department of the post office, the great express companies come forward with the small country merchant as a bugaboo who claims that his business will be practically ruined if the parcel post is established. Well it is true that a great many farmers would buy some of their merchandise at larger industrial centers than from the small country merchant but it is nevertheless true that the country merchant would be benefitted instead of being injured thereby, for the reason that the parcel post by which the post office could carry merchandise at low rates up to eleven pounds, would greatly promote the prosperity of the entire country. The country merchant as well as any other class of men would get their share. When the rural free delivery was introduced the same charge was made that the country merchants would suffer disaster. The country merchant is enjoying greater prosperity, especially in the last 15 years, than ever before.

The Terrible Soldier Ant.

The lion is the king of beasts, but all of his magnificent strength and ferocity would avail him nothing when he faced a mere ant. But this ant is not the usual kind which peacefully goes about its domestic duties day by day. It is the terrible driver or soldier ant, said to be the most invincible creature in the world. Against these tiny enemies no man or band of men, no lion nor tiger, not even a herd of elephants, can do anything but hurridly get out of the way. Among the Borotse natives a favorite form of capital punishment is to coat the victim with grease and throw him before the advancing army of soldier ants. The quickness with which the poor wretch is dispatched is marvelous when it is considered that each ant can do nothing more than merely tear out a small particle of flesh and carry it off. Yet surprisingly short time the writhing victim will have been changed into a skeleton.—Shreveport Times.

The Sheep Census.

According to the Census Bureau, the sheep industry has not shown any material change since the last census in 1900. Excluding lambs, because of the difference in the time of year when the census was taken, it is shown that there were 39,470,312 wool producing sheep in 1910, as compared with 39,852,967 for 1900. Corrected figures are expected to show an actual decrease of about 1 per cent. from 1900.

Taking the returns by geographical divisions, there was a decrease of about 1,000,000 sheep in the North Atlantic Division, in the South Atlantic Division there was a decrease of about 154,000, and in the South Central division the decrease was about 163,000. In the North Central division there was scarcely any change, 10,069,451 being reported in 1910, or only some 14,000 more than in 1900. The Western division showed an increase of about 1,000,000 sheep.

Story of A Dollar Bill.

Ten years ago a farmer put his initials on a dollar bill. The next day he went to the nearest town and spent it with a merchant; before the year was out he got the dollar back. Four times in six years the dollar came back to him for produce and three times he heard of it in the pockets of his neighbors. The last time he got it back four years ago, he sent it to a mail order house. He never has seen that dollar since and never will. That dollar bill will never pay any school taxes for his children, nor will it brighten any more houses of the community. He sent it entirely out of the circle of usefulness to himself and his neighbor when he sent it to the mail order house. Patronize your local merchant who advertises in his home paper, who helps you pay your taxes, support your schools and churches and lends the helping hand in times of sickness and trouble.—St. Louis Lumberman.

The above clipping concisely expresses our sentiments. Every man, woman and child owes it to their homes and to their country to patronize home industries and home people. A dollar spent at home will return to you some day but a dollar sent to a Mail Order House, never.

Patronize home merchant, home millers, home mechanics, home doctors, home lawyers, and "lastly" but not "leastly" your home paper.

But wait a moment; before patronizing any of the above look over your county paper, even if you have to borrow a copy, and see who advertises therein and you will know where to go to get the best goods, lower prices and the most courteous treatment.

Bear this in mind—It not only pays the business man to advertise but it also pays the public to read his ads.

Don't go where you are not invited. You are not welcome. The merchant who advertises invites you to come to his store, he is glad to see you when you come and the treatment he accords you makes you glad.

Subscribe for your home paper and trade the people who advertise in its columns.

We recently received some literature from the Kentucky Fish and Game Protective Association with the request that we give editorial approval of same which we gladly do. We quote from the address of Mr. Harry A. Sommers, of the Elizabethtown News, delivered before the Kentucky Press Association at Cerulean Springs recently.

Mr. Sommers said his greatest pleasure has been in fishing. "I publish a newspaper to make a living," said he, "but I would rather sit on the bank with a bucket of minnows and a good rod and line and feel a big bass tugging away on the hook than to have the credit of writing the best editorial Henry Watterson ever wrote."

Mr. Sommers said Kentucky was ideal fishing and hunting territory in the early days. He deplored the disregard of the laws against dynamiting fish and shooting game out of season.

"The man who dynamites a stream and kills fish," said he, "is as much an anarchist as the man who blows up a building and kills people. Millions of dollars are spent in Maine every year by people who go there to fish and hunt. Kentucky ought to be such a hunter's paradise."

Mr. Sommers spoke of the work of the Kentucky Fish and Game Protective Association, and urged the publishers to advocate the passage of a bill, indorsed by that organization, providing for a State Fish and Game Commission and the licensing or hunting and fishing.

The efforts of these gentlemen to preserve the fish and game in Kentucky are commendable. The time has almost passed in our State when one can have a decent days sport with rod or gun. Our game laws are inadequate and such as we have are not properly enforced. Men violate the law with impunity, killing game out of season and catching fish by unlawful methods. The dynamiter ought to be in the penitentiary and all other violators of the fish and game laws ought to be heavily fined.

It is the duty of every true sportsman in the State to get behind the Kentucky Fish and Game Protective Association and lend every assistance possible in bringing about the enactment of such laws as will protect our fish and game from threatened annihilation.

Give us a law making it a felony to dynamite fish. There is a crying need for such legislation. Let every one who is interested in the preservation of what few fish yet remain in our streams agitate this question.

It is possible that next weeks issue of the Courier will be a little late on account of the "Industrial Edition." This will not be the case if it can be avoided, however, but we are going to be considerably rushed with our work.

Circuit Court adjourned Saturday, the 15th, after one of the most sensational sessions ever held in Morgan county. The Grand Jury, which was in session two weeks, returned 286 indictments, covering nearly every offense defined by statute, from drunkenness to arson.

The vote sellers came in for their share, of which fact we are extremely proud. If this hellish traffic can be stopped or even lessened to any appreciable extent we will feel amply repaid for any effort of ours through the columns of the Courier, to start an investigation along this line. Any form of law-breaking is bad enough but vote selling stands easily at the head of the list as the worst of a bad lot.

We hope this investigation will not stop where it is but will be carried on till never a floater in Morgan county will be allowed to disgrace the ballot box by having his bartered ballot deposited therein.

Look Here, Mr. Man!

Do you think ten dollars per column for space in the Courier's Industrial is too high? Let's figure a bit. Ten dollars for an entire column. Over 3,000 people read the Courier regularly every week. More than 10,000 other people will read the Industrial, making a total of thirteen to fifteen thousand people who will read what is said about you in that issue. If you contemplate becoming a candidate for county office and wish to announce your candidacy it will cost you $5.00 for six or seven lines. The announcement does not go into extra homes as does the Industrial. It only reaches our regular subscribers. Can't you see that by taking space in the Industrial you get the cheapest advertisement you ever get in your life and cheaper than you can ever hope to get again?

Stop and think a moment before turning this proposition down and try to figure out who will derive the most benefit there from. Don't stand between yourself and the candle.

Relieves sour stomach, indigestion of the heart. Digests what you eat.

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala., "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

You may wonder why Cardui is so successful, after other remedies have failed. The answer is that Cardui is successful, because it is composed of scientific ingredients, that act curatively on the womanly system. It is a medicine for women, and for women only. It builds, strengthens, and restores weak and ailing women, to health and happiness.

If you suffer like Mrs. Fincher did, take Cardui. It will surely do for you, what it did for her. At all druggists.

WINCHESTER

Repeating Shotguns

USED IN THE U. S. ARMY.

The U. S. Army authorities know a gun; that is why, when they decided to equip some troops with repeating shotguns, they selected the Winchester in preference to all other makes. The experts of the U. S. Ordnance Board also know a gun; that's why, after submitting a Winchester Repeating Shotgun to all sorts of tests, they pronounced it safe, sure, strong and simple. If you want a shotgun—buy the one whose strength and reliability led the U. S. Army authorities to select it and the U. S. Ordnance Board to endorse it—that's the Winchester.

The National Amateur Trap Gun Championship.

At Columbus, Ohio, June 20th to 23rd, 1911, over four hundred trapshooters hotly contested for honors at the Annual Grand American Handicap Tournament. There were famous shooters there gathered from all points of the compass, striving to break the clay targets with a minimum of misses.

The Amateur event of the year—the classic "American Championship"—was won with a regular Stock "Trapshooter" Grade Stevens Repeating Shotgun. This is the noted Non-Balkable-Natural-Pointing Repeater and the man "behind the gun" was Mr. Clyde Collins, of Alldine, Ind. He shot the remarkable score of 196x200—18 yard rise. Never did the lighting like operation and perfect natural pointing features of the Stevens Repeater appear to better advantage than in this notable National Gun victory.

The J. Stevens Arms and Tool Co., Chicopee Falls, Mass., makers of Stevens Repeating Trap Guns, are being congratulated from all sides because of their splendid triumph—trapshooters "who know" are convinced that for best results the celebrated Stevens Repeating Shotguns are indispensable.

DINGUS.

[TOO LATE FOR LAST WEEK.]

F. M. Ferguson, of Poplar Plains, was here last week. He was accompanied home by Miss Nettie Patrick.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hamilton died the 26th inst. Recently the child was taken to Louisville for treatment of its mouth and lived only a short time after reaching home with it. To the grief stricken parents we invite them to the language of Jesus for comfort, "Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

Now that the election is over we hope that the defeated candidates and their friends will be content with their portion at the present time. You should bear in mind that it is easy for men to dig their own political graves. Your time might be next, so remember the old adage which is worthy of all acceptance: In union there is strength, in division, weakness. Get on the band wagon and march with us to victory.

We feel proud of the noble work the grand jury is doing and believe they understand their job as well as any jury Morgan county ever had. May the good work continue until each violator will be brought to speedy justice.

Agriculture as a Science.

Washington, D. C., July 19.—Hail to the tiller of the soil. He has won the respect of the world. Perhaps you have noticed that it isn't so common to deride his occupation as it used to be before Uncle Sam discovered it to be a science. Now young men are flocking to the agricultural schools and colleges and many of them are graduating into professorships, or into positions as experts with the government. One of the latter has just returned to Washington after spending two months in Spain and Sicily investigating lemon growing. He is G. Harold Powell, whose work for the Department of Agriculture in the investigation of causes of fruit decay in cold storage and in transit attracted such wide attention. The citrus fruit growers of California held his talents in such esteem that they tried to get him to go out there. When they got up to an offer of $10,000 a year salary he succumbed, and he is now secretary and manager of the Citrus Protective League of California, a model business organization of agriculturists, which has been fighting for a tariff on lemons that will permit the industry to survive. Having secured that tariff, the organization is now combating the organized campaign of the Sicilian importers to have it reduced. The latter have raised a big fund to influence public opinion in this country and to affect legislation.

POULTRY

TURKEYS GAINING IN FAVOR

Industry Has Increased in Many Ways on Account of Efforts of Producers for One Breed.

The growing of turkeys seems to have markedly improved within the last few years as a result of a determined effort on the part of producers of what is termed standard breed, or exhibition, stock to demonstrate that it is more profitable to use pure bred breeding stock than the smaller and less vigorous stock of days gone by. Their efforts to introduce throughout the country the several standard varieties of turkeys has greatly benefited the turkey-growing industry of this country. This has supplied rich, new, vigorous blood throughout the country, adding strength and vigor to innumerable flocks, and thereby, to some extent, building up the stock that had become deteriorated through the carelessness and inattention of the producers themselves.

The fact that one foundation is sufficient to render fertile all the eggs of one laying has made possible the undermining of the health and vigor of the present-day domestic turkey. Being advised of this, hundreds of people depend upon their neighbors' flocks for the services of a male, and pay no attention to the breeding stock except to keep one or two turkey hens. This has reduced many of the turkeys throughout the country almost to a condition of imbecility. The lack of vigor in a large portion of the breeding stock throughout the country has jeopardized to a certain extent the production of a sufficient number of market turkeys to supply the demand. In fact, not fully realizing their failure was largely due to undermining the vitality of their breeding stock through inbreeding. People have become so disinterested in some localities with the meagre results of their efforts to grow turkeys for market that they have given up the attempt.

POULTRY NOTES

Meat in some form must be fed poultry.

In Paris markets the eggs are dated, and one pays according to the freshness.

Turkeys should not be allowed to perch before they are fully three months old.

Ducks and geese require deep drinking vessels, especially if reared and kept on land.

An excellent substitute for green bone is the commercial meat sold by poultry supply houses.

After all the chicks are out of the shells the hens should be dusted for fear of lice upon the chicks.

The best breed for egg production is one that has been bred especially for egg production and not a particular breed.

Co-operative egg-farming is carried on in parts of England which gives a method for disposing of eggs to a good advantage.

Whitewash is better than paint on the poultry house for the reason that it costs less and has a purifying influence as well.

The setting hen should be provided with a dust bath, a place where she can dust herself each day when she comes off the nest.

The more the hen exercises the more perfect the circulation of the blood, and consequently more blood, which means more eggs.

It pays to feed young fowls well until full-grown. Once stunted they never regain their vigor even by the most careful feeding and care.

Fowls on free range, especially in an orchard, gather a vast amount of bugs, worms and insects that furnish them all the meat food they

FREE—1909 Edition Kentucky Governors' Wall Atlas to all who Subscribe for Six Months or a Year

EVERY TRUE KENTUCKIAN SHOULD HAVE A COPY OF THIS SPLENDID WALL ATLAS

The Latest Kentucky Map—Up to 1908—Full and Complete

Engraved especially for The Evening Post at a cost of $2,000. Printed in colors on heavy map paper. It contains six pages 28x36 inches. The Chart alone is worth $1.00.

The Portraits of all the Kentucky Governors, some of them very rare, one the only picture of its kind in existence.

There are nine other maps of great value, among them a map of the United States, the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Panama Canal Zone, also map of the World.

The Atlas shows portraits of all the Presidents, the Rulers of all Nations, with Coats of Arms and Flags.

A page is given over to Historical Kentucky from formation of State to the year 1000. A Historical and Political Directory of Kentucky, giving Presidential Vote, State Officials, Area and Population, U. S. Senators, Chief Justices, Speakers of Kentucky House, Congressional, Judicial and Railroad Commissioners, Districts, Democratic and Republican State Central Committees and State Executive Committees, Senatorial Districts, Counties of Kentucky, when made and from what Counties, Area and Population.

Statistics of the Panama Canal, Great Lakes, Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico, Alaska, Philippines, Area and Population of States and Counties. The Original States and those admitted. The Evening Post Kentucky Governor Wall Chart will be given FREE to those who subscribe for the Evening Post for One Year at $3.00 or for Six Months at $2.00 by Mail. (This price only for those who cannot get The Evening Post delivered by Carrier or Agent.)

DO YOU WANT ONE?

County Organizer and Manager Wanted.

A leading Fraternal Insurance Order desires a reliable white man to take charge of its work in this County—to introduce the Order—solicit members—collect monthly dues—organize lodges—appoint and manage sub-agents and so on.

No previous experience is needed, as we will teach you how to operate. This is a splendid opportunity for a good man, with liberal pay and chance of promotion.

Devote spare time at start, with whole time later on.

Well known man wanted, strictly honest, good ability, one who is a hustler and will get out and push the work forward.

This is a great chance to become an influential leader, to help your fellow man and make a good income for yourself at the same time.

This Society pays benefits for sickness, accident and death.

The lodges have grand ritualistic work, strictly new and up-to-date in every particular.

No other Order like it was ever started. Over 65,000 memberships already issued and growing very fast.

Write immediately for further particulars, giving full information of yourself in letter. Address in confidence,

Supreme Commander General, Box AB293 Covington, Ky.
